

Human-in-the-loop architecture of the natural-language research agent

The language model plans constrained workflows; experts review key decisions; predefined local skills and command-line tools perform execution.

Design principle: the LLM proposes; experts approve and interpret; constrained skills and local tools execute.